

Gaurangh Verma

2100290110054

CB17-3A

UHV Assignment

Ans 2-

In nature, there are four different kinds of entities. One of entity includes materials the other kind is plants, herbs etc. The third kind has animals and birds and the fourth kind includes human beings when we look at their interrelationships, we find that the materials, plants and animals are enriching for the others including human beings. If only we understand the processes in nature, we can design our production system through application of science and technology in such a way that this fulfillment is better ensured, rather than disturbing it.

Ans 3-

Immediateness - It means qualities which are immediate to the unit each unit in existence exhibits an immediateness an intrinsic quality that cannot be separated from it.

Material order - when we burn coal and it has finished burning of only some ash is left & smoke has gone away, it is not that basic material the fundamental particles in coal, have 'ceased to exist' or 'disappeared' from existence.

Plant/bio order -

Because the plant order is a development of the material order, it also has the immediateness of existence. In addition it also exhibits growth. This principle of growth cannot be separated from any unit of this order.

Animal order- The animal body is a development of psychic order and therefore this order inherits the characteristics of previous order namely 'existence' & 'growth'.

Ans 4- The characteristic the order displays is in 'nature to itself'. This is the same as the value of entity, or its participation also called 'Svabhava'. The Svabhava of material order is combination of plants order is combination & to humans or animals other psychic units. The Svabhava of animal order and human order can be understood in two aspects: body & self:-

The values of self in human being is-

- Preservance
-
- Bravery

Ans 5-

Combination of all that is in solid, liquid or gas state, or the aggregate of all the mutually interactive unit big or small & joined or interwoven together can be called nature.

We can categorize all these units into 4 orders-

- Material
- Psychic
- Animal
- Human